The Family Partnership Center Charter

The Family Partnership Center charter is signed by all Partners, and highlights the value of community, collaboration, and cooperation that are all central to the Family Partnership Center's community: The Family Partnership Center Charter (FPC) acknowledges each tenant partner's commitment to being a member of a community, not just an occupant of a building. The Charter outlines our shared community values, purpose, and responsibilities.

The Family Partnership Center is committed to providing its tenant partner organizations with an environmentally sustainable workspace and vibrant learning service community. Tenant partners contribute to the Center by participating in community events, and initiatives.

The Family Partnership Center intentionally selects tenant partners with the potential to contribute to the community. We believe that connecting organizations and sharing information is as essential a service offering as maintaining and improving the building. The Center and its tenant partners seek to cooperatively develop and sponsor education events, programs, and projects. We actively support our fellow tenant partners' outreach initiatives to broaden public awareness about their important work, various social issues, and the activities of the Center at large.

By creating and sharing this document, we seek to inspire all organizations and individuals currently working at the Family Partnership Center to consciously recognize their participation in the communities of the center.

The Partners in Residence at The Family Partnership Center

The Partnership Center houses approximately 20 programs and services designed to meet the health, social, cultural, educational, training and recreational needs of our community.

Since 2007, the Center Partners have identified three primary community issues: Health, Youth and Community. We use our collective experience and expertise to incorporate the resources of the business community, local schools and colleges, civic and religious organizations and not for profit and government agencies to focus on these priorities.

Life is Precious Program

Mission Statement: Since LIP opened, our goal has been to provide activities that the teens and their families felt would be most helpful. Our community informed approach resulted in activities that include academic support, creative arts therapies, music, health/wellness activities and family services. We understood from the beginning that for the program to be a success it was necessary to break the barriers that stopped families from accessing mental health care.

LIP's motto "Survive, Thrive and Strive" exemplifies the program's goals. When a teen enters a LIP, she is met by a knowledgeable and empathetic staff of professional Latinas. Once there, she receives tutoring to improve her academic performance; takes part in creative arts therapy to work through their emotions using art, music, movement and poetry; increases her self-esteem by improving their sense of self-worth; and opens lines of communication with her family. Our teens are given the hope to imagine a future full of possibilities and the tools to achieve them.

About the Agency: Since 2008, Comunilife's Life is Precious™ (LIP) program has provided suicide prevention activities to NYC Latina teens who have seriously considered or attempted suicide. The girls, who range in age from 12 to 17, are immigrants or first-generation Americans and live in some of New York City's lowest-income neighborhoods; LIP has four program locations - the Bronx (2008), Brooklyn (2009), Queens (2015) and Washington Heights (Manhattan) (2019). In FY 22, 181 Latina teens and their families accessed services. To be eligible for LIP the teens must be living with depression, suicide ideation or other diagnosed mental illness, be enrolled in school, under the care of a mental health clinician and have parents/guardians' permission.

Mission Statement: The Haiti Project, Inc. engages students in a life-changing experiential education in global citizenship, fosters sustainable development in Haiti, and promotes Haitian art. In addition to the purchase and sale of original Haitian art, the Project's contributions are guided by five initiatives in 45 villages: education, health care, reforestation, clean water access, and a women's cooperative.

- With a strong educational component, we are dedicated both to raising awareness of Haitian culture and society in the US and elsewhere, and to providing a hands-on, practical education in global citizenship.
- Through art auctions and sales, we directly support the welfare of hundreds of Haitian artists and artisans.
- These art sales in turn provide a means of support for funding education, healthcare, water access and purification, reforestation, and women's initiatives in Chermaitre, a mountain village in the Northwest department of Haiti.

About Us Founded at Vassar College in 2001 by Andrew and Lila Meade under the auspices of the Office of the Dean of the College, VHP has always been first and foremost about supporting Haiti, concerned mostly with fundraising for education, particularly supporting Haiti's art industry and a school in the rural village of Chermaitre. With the encouragement and energy of students, faculty, administrators, alumni and the community, VHP has evolved into a powerful teaching and mentoring model. We hold art sales on the east coast as a primary fundraising structure but also collaborate with other organizations to further our mutual goals.

About Us: The Poughkeepsie Library District is a special legislative district created to provide public library services to the residents of the City and Town of Poughkeepsie, New York. As such, the voters in each municipality annually vote on an operating budget and, from time to time, supplemental and capital programs. The Library District is its own independent authority and governed by its legislation, applicable public law, and its by-laws. For further information on the organization and administration of the Library District.
